

KS1 African Explorers

This resource is designed to promote and support children's enthusiasm for discovering Africa and its wildlife for the first time. The starter activity 'Getting ready to go' is aimed at thinking about some of the different habitats there are in Africa, and the different conditions there. The next two activities are for a visit to Marwell Zoo, where the children look out for African animals and complete a fact file on three of their favourites. The final activity, 'Explorer's journal', is designed to help children record their day at Marwell and should be completed back at school. A map of African animals at Marwell has also been included.

ART AND DESIGN

Getting Ready to Go

Africa is full of lots of different habitats.

A habitat is the type of place where an animal lives.

Draw lines to match each habitat to the things you might need if you were going there. Some items might be useful for more than one habitat!
