

Wild Explorers

A short guide with ideas and suggestions for a visit to Wild Explorers.

Wild Explorers is a mixed species exhibit for white rhinos, Grevy zebra and scimitar horned oryx.

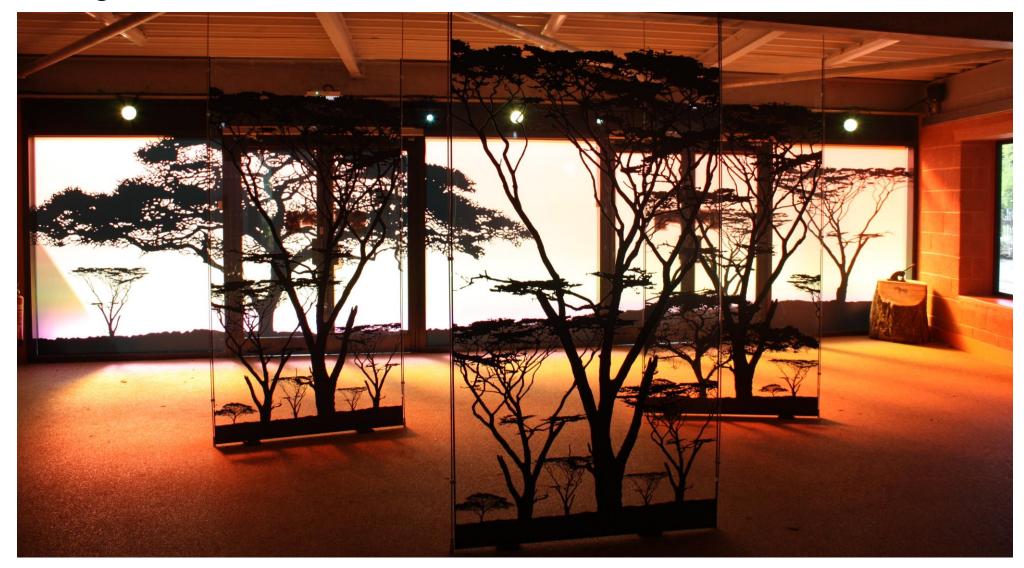

This exhibit includes spaces both inside and outside where small groups can gather. There are indoor viewing windows, observation walkways and access to view the paddock, so you will usually be able to see the animals wherever their location.

Imagine...

...that you are watching an African sunset.

- What animals might you see?
- Some animals might be settling down to sleep but some might just be getting up! (introduce the word nocturnal)

Imagine...

...that you are going for a trip in the truck - where would you go?

- What would you need to pack for the journey?
- What would you see?
- Have the children ever been on any long journeys? On holiday? Coming to live in UK?

Look for...

...footprints.

Can you find a footprint that is the same size as your hand? Can you find one which is bigger and one which is smaller?

How many of each kind of footprint can you find? Where? – On the left wall just inside entrance to indoor area.

Or work out who has left a footprint in the 'mud'?

Where? – follow the boardwalk; the footprints are just before the truck.

Look for... Rhino who's who?

Can you work out which rhino is which by looking at the shape of their horns?

In the playground...

...be careful- there is a crocodile lurking under a bridge - can you find him? Can you find a lion with his cub?

Can you find another crocodile in the zoo? (Wooden sculpture by walk through aviary)

Can you find another lion in the zoo? (Small stone lion by the top path on the back lawn)
